FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY

Dear Public Servant:

As a real estate professional, it concerns me gravely to hear that there is a possibility that limits will be placed on "telephone" work, i.e., soliciting business via phone contacts.

In a large number of professions, real estate being only one such profession, the phone is an indispensable tool to accomplish many things, among them generating additional business. Imposing limits or restrictions on the use of the phone, although in certain instances and respects it seems a good idea, would be remiss to the "true" professionals that depend on this tool. As a private individual I do not condone the questionable practices of a few boiler-plate operations, however, I don't believe that restrictions across the board is the solution to this dilemma. Please reconsider!

Cordially,

J. Mario Preza

P.S. Would you please also send me information about radio station licensing requirement and applications process? Thank you!

CALLING ALL REALTORS

NAR asks REALTORS who use "cold" calling in their businesses to write the Federal Communications Commission and urge it not to restrict person-to-person telephone solicitations in a regulation expected in mid-September. NAR analysts say letters should begin reaching the FCC now thru the middle of the second week of September to have the most impact.

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in reference to Docket No. 92-90, Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991. As a residential real estate sales agent for Concept 100 Real Estate, Inc., Lancaster, PA, I rely heavily on the telephone for person-to-person solicitations for both marketing as well as my business development. Imposing restrictions on my ability to use the telephone for my business would create a severe hardship in my ability to do a good job for those who hire me to market their properties, as well as in developing my own business.

I implore you to consider the importance of my being able to use the telephone without restrictions on person-to-person solicitation of residential properties when drafting your regulations to implement the Telephone Consumer Protection Act of 1991.

Sincerely,

Patricia Armstrong
